FIELD CROP SEED

THATCHER WHEAT now leads all other varieties in volume received at terminal markets. It is resistant to stem rust and sprouting. Thatcher Wheat is a beardless stiff-strawed wheat of medium height and high yielding ability.

PILOT WHEAT, the new rust-resistant wheat. It is a bearded wheat and has been recommended for this part of the state.

OATS

BOONE OATS, the new variety that proved itself last year. It is an early, short-strawed yellow oats, resistant to known races of rust and smut. Here's what one producer said about Boone Oats planted last year. 'From 14 bushels of Boone-Oats purchased from the McMahon Company last spring and planted on 8 acres of my land five miles west of Rapid, I harvested 591 bushels of 40-pound oats.'

We recommend BRUNKER OATS for an extra early oats. Oftentimes escapes drouth and grasshoppers to make a crop when others fail. To get full benefit, plant early.
